The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4, 7, 18 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Scott et al.

See the bowl of Fig. 1 having an integral vent inlet at 25 employing a “turned-down” end 29 (see col. 1, lines 66-72).

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 8-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Scott et al, as applied supra, taken with Sakar.

Sakar teaches an axial fan 44 to draw air from a bowl 20 via inlet 48, To employ a fan such as 44 of the latter in the former would have been obvious to the ordinary artisan in order to provide a more efficient system. Alternatively, it would have been obvious to provide for the inlet of Sakar to be integral as taught at 25,29 of Scott et al as an integral or add on inlet would have constituted obvious alternative equivalents.

Claims 5, 6 and 20 stand withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on /25/04.
